Hillsville Girl Will Face Jury Trial Monday

Angeline Maravola To Be Tried For Death Of Michael Rich, Jr.

EIGHTY JURORS IN PANEL SUMMONED

Court Issues Orders To Prevent Overcrowding Of Trial By Spectators

Angeline Maravola, 22, of Hillsville, charged with the murder of Michael A. Rich, Jr., 23, of Hillsville, will go to trial Monday morning, March 13. Her case is listed as number one on the docket and will be taken up before Judge W. Walter Braham in court room number one.

On February 3, Miss Maravola shot and killed Michael A. Rich, Jr., in the home of his father where Miss Maravola was employed as a housekeeper. She gave herself up to Constable C. N. Shingler immediately after the shooting and told a story of unrequited love at the time.

Eighty jurors have been empaneled for the week's term of court and following the polling of the jury Miss Maravola will be arraigned, probably about 9:45 a.m.

Interest in the case has developed especially in the Hillsville district and it is anticipated that a crowd of spectators will endeavor to gain admission to the court room. Judge Braham has said he will not permit the court room to be over crowded for the trial and that after the room is filled, the court doors will be closed.

Since the shooting in Hillsville on February 3 Miss Maravola has been confined in the women's section of the county jail, without bail.

It is possible the selection of a jury will take all day Monday and that the taking of testimony will start on Tuesday morning.

PA NEW OBSERVES

There seems to be an epidemic of "one-eyed" autos on the highway these nights.

Believe it or not, but one of Pa New's boys has had a bouquet of Forsythia blooms already this season. He pruned the tips off a bush at his home and brought them into the house and put them in a jar of water. In less than a week, the blossoms burst into bloom. The flowers of many shrubs can be brought into bloom this way.

The early birds report that there are lots of fishing worms, but the weather is still mighty chilly along the local streams. P. S.—the fish are not biting so well either.

The depression will be over as far as Jack Young, the city dog catcher, is concerned if those dogs Pa New sees running around are not tied up.

The operators of the city street sweeper experienced some mechanical trouble while working on Atlantic avenue, and were seen crawling beneath the machine in true mechanic style. The damage was repaired and they went "sweeping" on their way.

Another degree or two difference in temperature this morning would have made a great difference in weather conditions. It started out to snow, but changed to rain and sleet a little later. Had it been just a bit colder, what fell would have frozen fast to everything it touched. We haven't had one of those mornings yet this winter, for which we may all be thankful.

Wilson Myers, of Edensburg, R. D. 1 on returning home Friday evening from Lawrence Cameron's home, 4 miles away, saw a large groundhog run across the road a short distance ahead of him.

FRANCE HEARS FRANCO MOVING ON MADRID

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)
MADRID, March 11.—The national defense council announced today that the central and provincial committees of the Communist party surrendered unconditionally at noon to the forces of Col. Segismundo Casado.

General Jose Miaja's forces appeared early this afternoon to be gaining the upper hand over the rebellious Communists in bitter street fighting in the southeastern district of Madrid.

Desperate Fighting
Authorities said that the rebels, fighting desperately with hand grenades and machine guns in a chaotic close-quarter engagement, were in danger of being surrounded. The center of the combat shifted today from the eastern to the city's southeastern district of the city where street fighting continued. Yesterday's battle area, however, was deserted with council patrols taking extreme precautions to avoid new outbreaks.

Report Franco Drive Starts
Paris, March 11.—As the Madrid regime's national defense council forces remained locked today in a death-grip combat with rebellious Communists, insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's armies launched their long-awaited "final" offensive on the Madrid front, according to dispatches from the former Spanish capital.

The insurgent drive met immediate and vigorous resistance, the Madrid dispatches declared. Artillery batteries of the Madrid regime's Republican forces replied to the opening of insurgent fire by intensive counter-fire.

"Hooray For Youth" Is Presented By Players Of Senior High School

Getting completely away from anything heavier than an over-stuffed sunbeam, the dramatics class of the Senior High school presented "Hooray For Youth" Friday evening in the auditorium. After watching the youngsters of the dramatics class work out the problem of the missing $5000 from the Blair store, the play title became the crowd's quotation.

"Hooray For Youth" is more of a dramatic dessert than an entree, a sort of histrionic fillip that goes well of an evening. It concerns the Blair family, Austin Madison Blair, Sr. and Jr., Gracie, Dot and Loretta, who with crippled Aunt Effie and Hattie the maid make up the family.

They Need The Dough
With a lot of village youngsters the Blair brood belongs to the Young Peoples Advancement Society which in turn needs $500 to fix up the baseball field. Blair Sr. goes on a fishing trip, turning over the store to his young assistant Curt Melton who thinks he is in love with Loretta Blair.

Will Combat Truck Ruling

Truck Owner Operators Organize In Effort To Have
W. P. A. Order
Changed

OBJECT TO HIRING OF TRUCKS BY BID

Truck owner-operators of Lawrence County are aroused over the recent ruling of the Procurement Division of the United States treasury which calls for the hiring of trucks on the WPA by competitive bid.

The Committee of Truck-Owner-Operators of this county, with Glenn Harper as president has been busy attempting to organize the various counties adjoining in an effort to have the rule abrogated.

Under the ruling, every job on the WPA must be left out by bid, that is, a job calling for the trucking of stone from a quarry to a road job must be awarded to the lowest bidder.

Claim Move Unfair

This truck owner-operators says is unfair. They point out that a fleet operator can submit a bid for half a dozen trucks much under the rate a single truck owner can quote. With the bids going to fleet owners, many individual truck operators will be denied work and will have to go onto relief.

CAUSE OF BLAZE NOT DETERMINED

Fire Discovered About 3
A. M.—Firemen Battle
Flames For Two Hours

(Special To The News)

MERCER, March 10.—Mercer's most spectacular and destructive fire in years struck in the early morning hours today and, in spite of a valiant battle by the town's combined volunteer fire-fighting forces, leveled the town's only theater, destroyed a small home in the rear of it and damaged three neighboring stores and shops, at a total loss estimated at $75,000, or more.

Today authorities sought to determine what caused the blaze. It is reported an explosion occurred in the rear of the theatre at the outset of the blaze.

Discovered About 3 A. M.
Discovered in the Liberty theater about 3 a. m., the flames roared violently through the showhouse's auditorium and spread to the house in the rear and then to shops next door. Most of the damage to the stores, however, was confined to smoke and water.

Harry Wallace, 74, living in the house directly behind the theater, was awakened about 3 by the crackling of the flames.

He looked out a window to see the Liberty's auditorium ablaze and to see his own home burning. He was forced to drop from a low second-floor window and was injured in the act. He sounded the first alarm.

Both the "uptown" and "East End" volunteer department units responded and for two and a half hours battled to check the fire's sweep.

Bank Is Endangered
While the Liberty, seating about 1,200 persons, was destroyed, water and smoke damage was done to the McCalla Bros. radio shop and Mrs. Eleanor Genader's confectionery shop. The Farmers' National bank nearby was touched by the water and smoke, too, but this morning it was opened for business at the customary hour.

If you want to keep dogs then you ought to be willing to pay for a tag, I would say, for the law says you must, or they'll smack on a fine, its cool, only forty today.

Thousands Would Go To Brazil

Make Inquiry About Project

Large Number May Go To Aid In Development Of Country

WASHINGTON MAY PLAN EMIGRATION

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright 1939)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—A concrete plan for large-scale emigration of American farmers, skilled technical workers and college graduates to Brazil to aid in the country's development, is expected to be submitted to Washington at an early date, it was learned today.

Thousands of inquiries have been made by the Brazilian embassy and American state department in the wake of revelation by International News Service that Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha has proposed to President Roosevelt that skilled workers and farmers on WPA relief rolls be sent to Brazil in a colonization project similar to the Matanuska colony in Alaska.

Brazilian sources said today that the project is still in its tentative stage, but is one of the important phases of Brazil's new economic plan, which Aranha will develop on his impending return to the Brazilian capital.

It was indicated that President Roosevelt had listened attentively to Aranha's colonization proposal, discussing it with him in two separate conferences, but that no definite commitments were made on behalf of this government.

watch the fire battle and remained at the scene until the volunteers conquered it shortly after 5.

Fred Cubison, chief of the "up-town" division of the volunteers, was in charge of the firemen during the night.

The Liberty theater stands in the Court House square, north of the county building. It is owned by Blatt Bros. of Corry, operator of a chain of theaters.

It is believed that most of the loss is covered by insurance, although no statement has been made on the amount.

In connection with the fire it is recalled that the theatre occupied the former site of the old Hotel Humes which was burned down on January 15, 1916.

At the height of the fire aid was asked from Sharon firemen, and a truck was started for Mercer, but encountered trouble enroute, it is stated.

It is estimated that there are about two per cent of the people in the United States that are incapacitated by illness at any given time.

Criswell said he proposes today to charge her with larceny.

Almost everyone has at some time or other been impressed with the apparently large amounts of electricity going to waste during electrical storms. Now comes science to tell us that even so small an amount of current as is used by an electric toaster in one second would require all the electricity contained in five ordinary lightning bolts.

The term "acre" as a measurement of land, was originally applied to an area of pasture, or hunting ground. It later came into use as a measure of ground, and was held to be what one man could plow in one day, or (in England) what a yoke of oxen could plow in one day.

Seventeen-year-old policemen will soon appear in Tokyo, Japan. The Metropolitan Police board will appoint 500 policemen of that age and over. Fresh from the secondary schools, they will first be assigned to office duties. The minimum age limit hitherto has been 21.

Three are deceased: John Hopkins, Harry Long and Harry Rosenthal. Mrs. Helen Kenny followed with few remarks. Judge Walter Braham, a past commander spoke on "The Future of the Legion." Silva Speaks On Townsend Plan

Makes Address At Court House On Friday Evening To Large Crowd

Friday evening, at the Court House, rooms No. 1 and 2 were filled with an audience to listen to an address given by Louis C. Silva, Assistant Tax Commissioner of the Hawaiian Islands.

Dave Young, of Townsend Club No. 3, presided. He opened the meeting in the usual manner, calling on Rev. Harry Johnson, who led in prayer, the audience sang "America" and saluted the Flag.

J. E. Robb, Townsend State representative, was introduced, and he took charge of the meeting. Before introducing Mr. Silva, Mr. Robb had a rising demonstration in the audience, and it was found there were about thirty clubs represented, including Pittsburgh, Butler, Greenville, Sharon and Youngstown.

Mr. Silva said he was employed by the Governor of Hawaii to make a research for the best method of taxation to raise revenue for government expenses. A gross income tax of 14 per cent was submitted to the legislature, with the understanding that it would balance the budget, and wipe out a million dollar deficit. Business men at first fought it, saying it was ruinous, but it was finally put through. It was found to be a good law, and after 18 months was lowered to one percent, as more money was collected than was necessary. Businesses were carefully listed, and whereas about 5,600 formerly paid at the rate of $464, 26,000 later paid about $100 each.

Asked if the tax increased cost of purchase to consumers, he answered no, also that the increase under the Townsend Plan would be very small, despite the cry of the "highly toothed economists," and that his word was as good as theirs. He said they were making good progress with the Townsend H. R. 2 bill at Washington, and believed it would come to the floor of the House. In answer to many requests for his services to speak at clubs, Mr. Silva said he would be very busy helping all he could to get the bill through at Washington, and could get away but seldom.

Groden, the talented children and members of the organization will be presented in sketches, dances and readings at Temple Israel, March 28. This event is being highly anticipated. Mrs. L. Those participating were Phyllis Cohen and Jeanette Kulkin on the affirmative side and Paul Shifman and Ted Marlin on the negative side. Keen interest followed the presentation of the arguments and much credit is due Dave Lerner, who acted as the debater.

Later, members and guests were invited to the dining room where Mrs. B. Kline and Mrs. I. Grossman poured tea and refreshments were served. The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

RESPECT HIRED HELP

WE PARENTS reveal unawares much of our best and worst to our children through our attitude toward domestic help. While some parents choose to treat their servants on a level with themselves and family socially, most do not; nor do the help, as a rule, prefer such an attitude toward them.

Nevertheless, all servants in the home deserve and deserve to be treated with reasonable respect. They have feelings and self-respect; they have hopes and fears and joys and sorrows, just as we and our children have.

Are Personalities
We owe it to them and our children observing us to keep in mind that our domestic help are personalities, even sacred personalities. We cannot afford to cause them needless work or worry, to speak to them as if they were brutes, or make them feel needlessly subservient.

I am thinking now particularly of those women who once enjoyed high standards of living in a cultured home, but because of some one's bad management or thoughtlessness, or because of misfortune incident to the depression or some other reason, are now trying to eke out a living at housework, perhaps supporting one or several children. It is possible that they once enjoyed a home even more favored socially, economically and culturally than the one in which they now are serving. I have met some of these persons, and I could not help putting myself in their place, getting, in my imagination, some of their experience.

Magic Power
As one looks about and listens, one sees and hears so much unnecessary inhumanity by those who happen to have advantage in position or possession of this world's goods toward another less favored, that he often wishes for some magic power to make them more humble and sympathetic.

I would not think that we parents would even want our children to see us treat a dog or cat with undeserving harshness. I feel very sure, indeed, that we really wish our children to think of us always as having been very considerate toward those who help us in our home. And we want our children also to be properly respectful of the servants, and chiefly for our children's sake.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THAT "GAS TAX"

No schoolbooks mentioned it, but February 23 was the anniversary of a great idea. Millions have paid tribute, probably unknowingly, to the idea proposed on that day. The author of the idea was Louis Bean of Oregon. He introduced the first Bill in America to levy a tax on gasoline. Like many a statesman with a new way for raising funds out of the public pocketbook, he did not at first succeed.

It was just twenty two years ago, on February 23, that Oregon passed the Nation's first gasoline tax law. If an idea can be judged by its results, the measure which Bean of Eugene brought to successful fruition has indeed been epochal. It has yielded state treasuries no fewer than seven billion dollars since motorists first began paying tribute to filling-stations the country over. The motorist, in fact, proved such a windfall that he has been gamely footing newer and higher levies ever since.

This tax, if rightly used, would build and maintain super highways the Nation over—highways with the streams of traffic segregated to avoid head-on collisions; highways like the new German roads, where there are no grade crossings and all lighted at night.

But, no, the "spenders" in State Capitals are too willing to divert the tax to support the most part of those who pay no taxes, but whose votes are much desired by the lawmakers.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. — Senator Gerald P. Nye takes a cynical view of the rearmament program:

"In the 13 years I've been in the senate there's been a war scare every winter just before the appropriation bill for war supplies has been submitted to congress."

NEW YORK — Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, hails the new finance and trade treaty with the United States:

"The day marks the beginning of a new international new deal by which Brazil will benefit. We have been working more and receiving less — now we will work more and receive more."

LOS ANGELES — The Duke of Sutherland sees and optimistic outlook for peace:

"I don't expect war in Europe in 1939. It seems to me the tension has abated."

NEW YORK — Ambassador Claude Bowers of Spain pays tribute to Spanish courage:

"I don't think there is a race in Europe that could show such high courage. There is nothing like it in the world."

All of our minds function in much the same way. If we form different opinions, we probably had different material to make them with.

"Dear Casanova (or Don Juan): Your letter proves what I have long suspected, that you are indeed the Great Lover and I marvel at the thought of how many lucky girls are daily thrilled by your flattering eloquence. Yes, it will be simply great to go with you Tuesday night."

Reader's Question Answered
Dear Miss Markel—Is it permissible for a woman to wear evening clothes when her escort wears a sack suit?

Answer—If the occasion requires a woman to "dress" the man should also. If he does not wear evening clothes, neither should his feminine companion.

He went to one whom he thought more wise. Than any other beneath the skies. "Mother," a word that makes home— "Tell me, when will tomorrow come?"

"It's almost night," the mother said. "And time for my boy to be in bed. When you wake up and it's day again, it will be tomorrow, my darling, then."

The little boy slept through all the night. But woke with the first red streak of light. He pressed a kiss to his mother's brow. And whispered: "Is it tomorrow now?"

"No, little Eddie, this is today. Tomorrow is always one night away."

He pondered awhile, but joys came fast. And this vexing question quickly passed.

But it came again with the shades of night. "Will it be tomorrow when it is light?"

For years to come he seemed care to borrow. He tried so hard to catch tomorrow. "You can not catch it, my little Ted. 'Enjoy today,' the mother said. 'Some wait for tomorrow through many a year— It is always coming but never here.' —McGuffey's Fourth Reader.

Borah And Norris Disagree
Split Over Matter Of Defense
One For Navy; Other For Air Strength

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON, March 11.—Senators William E. Borah and George W. Norris disagree on a queer proposition—for that pair to disagree on.

Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska are pretty much alike. Borah is an American isolationist—absolute non-participation in overseas quarrels is his motto par excellence. Norris is the only surviving senator who voted against this country's participation in the World War.

They're partners, to all intents and purposes. Borah calls himself a Republican; really, he's an independent. Norris was re-elected in his last campaign as an independent but previously he always had run as a Republican.

Now they've split. Norris is in favor of American aerial defense. Borah contends that aerial defense is a mere matter of jitters. Neither of the two has any expert knowledge of the problem.

Senator Borah's Case

Senator Borah's proposition is that no foreign power can get here—airally or otherwise. He recognizes that German or Italian planes can wreck London or Paris but he contends that they couldn't imaginably fly damagingly over New York or Washington or farther inland. So, why—he asks—blow in god money against the impossible?

"Jitters," he says. Military aviators concur with him, more or less.

Senator Norris' Version

Senator Norris contends that no overseas power can invade the United States, from across the Atlantic or the Pacific.

However, he argues that Japanese warships, on the west coast, or German or Italian east coast vessels, could play heck with our defenses, east and west.

It's a funny view-point for a Nebraska pacifist, but it has its logic. Anyway, Senator Norris maintains that it's pacifistic. Senator Borah reasons that it's belligerent.

What's Aviation's Value?

The truth is: What's aviation good for, militarily speaking? It's nice for observation purposes. It's an arm, as fighters express it. German and Italian aviators can smash London and Paris to be sure. But England and France can smash up Berlin and Rome for that matter. They can do this at short range—but how about New York and farther westward? They can't land anybody. They can't get home, even. They'll have to descend on foreign soil and be captured.

German planes bombed London and got home again, but they couldn't do it in New York or Chicago. They'd be highly offensive certainly, but they'd be attended to.

Defensive or What?

Senator Norris' program is in opposition to that contingency. He wants SOMETHING.

Senator Borah doesn't consider ANY defense necessary.

They're a queer pair—Borah and Norris.

BASEBALL FOR A CENTURY

A hundred years of baseball! That's a century complete. Of singles and of homers, clouds of dust and flying feet; Of thrilling shoe-string catches and daring stops and throws. And those hours of real excitement. Which the sport of sports bestows. That's one hundred glorious seasons out of doors from spring to fall. Filled with national devotion to the grandest game of all.

A hundred years of baseball! That's one lifetime and a third. Of battles waged for glory where no bloodshed has occurred. That's a century on the diamond, in the bleachers and the stands. One hundred first ball-tossers, and who knows how many bands? Who could all the uncles' funerals of those opening days recall. As a symbol of our worship of the grandest game of all.

A century of baseball! May the sport go on and on. With no end to its enchantment till the final pennant's won! May the season start in April and the crowds turn out to cheer. For the future Cobbs and Keelers and go wild as they appear! May the years repeat the gladness that was mine when I was small. May the boyhood of the ages share the grandest game of all.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1938)

Mr. Eccles Grimly Waits

Washington, March 11. IN THE RUSH of things last week it seemed to have escaped general attention that the ringing assertion of Senate Democratic leaders that what the country most needs is a halt in governmental spending was almost immediately followed by the insistence of the Federal Reserve Board, made in its regular bulletin, that the exact reverse is true and the real medicine is more and larger expenditures.

NOTHING could be more illuminating. Back of that bulletin was the grim little figure of Mr. Marriner Eccles, chairman of the board and the great fiscal theorist of the New Deal. Completely contemptuous of orthodox financing and holding steadily to his own recently evolved economic philosophy, Mr. Eccles remains sternly aloof from the great appeasement drive, convinced of the futility of Congress and confident that the President cannot be weaned away from the spending policy.

THE head of the great Federal Reserve is an interesting man with a one-track mind, who clings closer to his theories than a dog to a bone. His influence in this Administration has been very great and of his sincerity there is no doubt at all. He has an almost fanatical belief in the soundness of his own theories and has worn out most of his friends talking about them. As a matter of fact, though he is personally agreeable, genuinely able and possessed of many good qualities, he is not a man of many friends either in or out of the Administration. Mr. Morgenthau and he, for example, do not get along at all.

THEIR views conflict, their personalities are not sympathetic, and their general fiscal philosophies are at variance. It is understood that Mr. Morgenthau suspects Mr. Eccles of wanting to be Secretary of the Treasury just as he suspected Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy. Certainly he was right about Mr. Kennedy and probably he is right about Mr. Eccles. Nevertheless, Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Eccles, as the heroic Hopkins would say, are on the same team. When Mr. Roosevelt goes conservative, which is pleasing to Mr. Morgenthau, Mr. Eccles goes along; and when Mr. Roosevelt goes radical, along Mr. Eccles' path. Mr. Morgenthau, though suffering acutely, goes along just the same.

IT has been generally accepted that it was Mr. Keynes, the British economist, who first convinced Mr. Roosevelt that we could spend our way back to prosperity. Actually, Mr. Eccles, in February, 1929, a month before Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated, appeared before the Senate Finance Committee, urging a great spending program and outlining many of the later New Deal experiments. What he said made slight impression at the time because he was then an obscure private citizen, unknown outside of Utah. However, it remains a fact that Mr. Eccles was the pioneer in the policy which has added twenty billions to our debt in six years.

NOW he is the pioneer of the fiscal philosophy that neither the unbalanced budget nor the stupendous debt are things to worry about, as, after all, we are merely "borrowing from ourselves." In times such as these, he thinks, the one mistake to avoid is economy, the one course to pursue—greater expenditures. Those who agree with Mr. Eccles seem to ignore the fact that a debt is something that some day has to be paid; that the one we have piled up so high eventually will have to be worked off by taxation, inflation or repudiation. Instead, they contribute to the nation's confusion and aggravate its plight by trying to talk Americans out of worrying about the national debt. "If," as Collier's Weekly recently expressed it, "they succeed, they will change the nation from a sane-minded people to a nation of dead-head-minded-and-proud-of-it people."

THE present conservative tendency of the Administration which cheers Mr. Morgenthau's good deal, leaves Mr. Eccles with undiminished confidence in his own strange fiscal theories and makes his position entirely sure that when it is discovered that the response from business to the present Roosevelt-Morgenthau-Hopkins conciliation and co-operation campaign is disappointing, there will be a reversion of the White House to the Eccles economics of unrestricted spending. One reason for believing this deduction sound is because if the present "drive" does not get results, so far as the President is concerned he has no alternative. Spending is the real New Deal dish. It is at the bottom of the whole New Deal philosophy. Despite bitter experience, its leaders still insist upon its efficacy. Proposals of a ten per cent cut, such as proposed by Senator Harrison, are abhorrent to them. Spending remains the one instrumentality by which full failure of the vast Administration experiments can be veiled and the appalling realities of the situation evaded.

Increased Church Attendance Is Spurred By Campaign

Attendance At Churches Better

Campaign In Sunday Schools Is Stimulating Attendance At Church Services

SIXTY-FIVE SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN CAMPAIGN

The Sunday schools that are stressing church attendance in the "Four Star" campaign which is being sponsored by the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association and which continues until Easter, are getting splendid results.

This applies in New Castle to the following schools in particular: The Highland U. P. the First U. P., the Second U. P., the Third U. P., the First Christian, the Central Christian, the Reformed Presbyterian and the Croton M. E. These Sunday schools have a systematic plan and are getting results. The First Baptist Sunday school also has a good church attendance campaign in progress.

At the executive committee meeting of the County Association last Thursday at the First Christian church, the following plan was suggested for Sunday schools not having a definite plan for church attendance. Have a visitor call at each class of the Sunday school, preferably at the close of the lesson, and request of the teacher to find out how many of the class will stay with the teacher for the church service. The number is taken down and the teacher is responsible for their attendance, and if possible, it is urged that the classes sit together so as to show their comparative strength. The reports of the attendance from each class are then totaled and this number is divided by the Sunday school attendance for that day, and this gives the percentage of the Sunday school remaining for church. It is then up to the Sunday school superintendent to see that the classes that have good attendance at the church service be given proper recognition.

Another suggestion was made at the executive committee meeting by Floyd W. Lortz, the active and efficient superintendent of the First U. P. Sunday school. He has a plan that he is using successfully which illustrates the Biblical quotation, "A little child shall lead them." Mr. Lortz noticed that some of the parents were bringing the children to Sunday school and then leaving them to be called for later. He is now giving special credit to the small children who bring their parents, and in order for the child to receive this credit the parents must attend Sunday school. The small children are given a card with a message telling of this plan to take home and be given to parents. We believe other Sunday schools could use this or a similar plan to advantage.

It has also been suggested that the Sunday afternoon of April 2, the Sunday just before Easter, that every participating Sunday school, and others too if they wish, should send out teams or individuals to systematically visit those members that have not been attending regularly, so that Easter will climax this increase effort in which 65 Sunday schools are taking part.

Attendance Awards To Be Made Sunday At Trinity Church

Sunday morning, during the church school session at Trinity church, awards consisting of pins, New Testaments, and prayer books will be made. These are for attendance at the Lenten services.

Last February 19, the Rev. Philip C. Pearson discussed the proposed reunion between the Presbyterian and the Episcopal churches. At that time he gave a broad outline of what has happened and the lines of future effort to effect organic unity. Many people in the congregation asked for a more detailed statement of just what the differences and agreements at present are, as well as for a more minute description of certain phases of the problem. These will be given next Sunday evening in Trinity church, to all interested in the great problem of "getting together."

Synod President At Finnish Church

Dr. A. Haapanen, president of the Suomi Synod, will be the week end guest of the local Finnish Lutheran church. Dr. Haapanen resides in Hancock, Michigan, and is making one of his periodical tours of inspection of member congregations. It is three years since Dr. Haapanen visited here and the local Finnish people are very pleased to have him with them.

A special anniversary program is sponsored Sunday afternoon commencing at 2:30 by the Older Ladies' Aid Society of the local church. Both Dr. and Mrs. Haapanen will speak at this affair.

Sunday evening will be the occasion for a communion service when the Rev. Dr. A. Haapanen will preach in the Finnish and Rev. Einar W. Lehto, of the local church will preach in the English.

'Square' Colorado Gambler Dies In Poverty At 73

TELLURIDE, Colo.—One of southwestern Colorado's most picturesque figures of the past was Joe Piquard, gambler and saloon keeper, who died recently in poverty.

Piquard, 73 at the time of his death, was known throughout the mining camps of this area 40 years ago as a "square" gambler.

One of the highlights of his colorful career was his visit to Monte Carlo, famous European gambling resort.

"I wanted to see how a really big game was operated," he told friends here. "I knew too much about it, though, to touch the other fellow's game."

A story was often told of an obscure miner who died in Rico, Colo., while Piquard was operating a saloon there. The gambler came forward with $800 which he said the miner had entrusted to him, unknown to any one else.

Shelby League Play-Off Series To Begin Tonight

Hot Finish And Cold Finish Begin Race For 1938-39 Championship; Both Confident

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—Of great interest to Ellwood City's basketball fan base is the first game in the play-off series tonight at the Shelby Court to determine the championship of the inter-department league.

Last year's champions and the first half winners, the Hot Finish, will meet the second-half Cold Finish champs at 7 o'clock in the first of three games to determine the winner.

Easily winning the first half, the defending champs rallied into a tail-spin in the second-half hitting rock bottom more often than they like to recall while only occasionally flashing a little of their former brilliancy.

Strengthened by the addition of Greco and Fred DeTullo to a swap of players at the half, the Cold Finish have displayed the stuff of which champs are made by their last minute victory rallies time after time.

The Hot Finish has had difficulty in mustering a complete team owing to improved working conditions but along with their opponents will be out in full force tonight to make a desperate stand to regain their former prestige. SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

(Material Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

REPORTS

When Wednesday arrived the entire student body of Ne-Ca-Hi was biting its fingernails, twirling its handkerchiefs, and in general swooning from suspense. The big moment had arrived to that had been looked forward to and feared for weeks.

What was causing all this excitement? No, Mr. Frankenstein was not roaming about nor was Dracula frightening students by peering in windows. Wednesday was report day and that day that their teachers might stop and reconsider.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM
On Thursday morning third period Ne-Ca-Hi was privileged to have an unusual assembly program featuring America's Number One Autograph Collector, Mr. Edwin A. Rowlands of Pittsburgh, Pa., who has been recognized as such by two of the country's leading magazines, Mr. Rowlands has collected over a thousand autographs of celebrities, and his collection is insured for $12,000. He has three volumes and is now working on the fourth.

Among his autographs are those of Chief Justice Hughes, Walt Disney, Thomas Dewey, Amelia Earhart, President Roosevelt, and of Man O' War, the greatest race horse in history. Mr. Rowlands must have five requisites to become an autograph collector. They are: nerve, patience, and salesmanship. He had many amusing incidents to tell and his talk was highly enjoyed by the audience. He had as his subject, "What a Hobby Can Do For You."

The assembly was sponsored by the Music Department and the proceeds will be used to buy vestments or robes for the chorus.

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"
Some three hundred odd years ago, William Shakespeare inserted in the pages of one of his master dramas this short quotation: "The play's the thing!"

Even back to the Greek age of antiquity we have the play, or drama, as a means of expressing a writer's thoughts in speech and action to be utilized by the listeners as instruction or as entertainment.

One reason why the drama must rate high with the arts is that it has never completely died out in any period of history. In our twentieth century we cannot visit any city of a population of more than 30,000 without seeing drama in one respect, either in the form of a stage play or a moving picture—a billion-dollar industry which is a direct result of the stage play and which plays an important part in the evening's entertainment of the modern family.

In the senior high school curriculum dramatics has been included to give students with dramatic ability a chance to perform. Time is given unselfishly in the same spirit that prompts more mature artists to give their time because "the show must go on."

BROADCASTS FROM NE-CA-HI
A series of interesting programs will be presented every Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the senior high school auditorium. These programs are planned by a general committee of teachers with B. K. Thacker acting as general chairman.

Miss Anne Perry of Terrace school was in charge of the initial program Wednesday, March 8, and entertained with the Terrace Jubilee Choir, a group of 23 colored children. Next Wednesday Miss Clarissa Duff of George Washington junior high school will have charge of the program.

These programs will be very interesting and instructive as well as entertaining and are of various types as they will be presented by the different schools of New Castle.

HOME ROOM PROGRAM
"Keep 'em guessing" might well have been the theme for this week's home room program on Monday. This was the third in a series of programs on "How to Get Along With People." It is a very interesting and instructive series.

The habits of study was this week's program in the series of sophomore programs "Habits." This series has been planned to prepare the sophomores for citizenship in the school and in the world.

The rest of the meeting was used for discussion and it was finally decided to lay aside the idea of a court until next semester.

GIRLS' GYM CLASSES
Hurrah! Wheel and other shrieks of a more inhuman nature can be heard at all hours through the building. The girls' intra-class volleyball contests are on and the popularity of these contests is shown by the noise.

GIRL RESERVES
The Ne-Ca-Hi Girl Reserves were pleasantly entertained Monday evening when they gathered in the Y. W. C. A. for their regular weekly meeting. Peaches Schuller opened the meeting, after which the secretary, Esther Chill, read the minutes of the previous meeting. Betty Raney gave the treasurer's report and Margaret Ussellon made an announcement concerning the newspaper group. Betty Eckelberger, the program chairman, then introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Ross Rosenberg, who gave an informal talk on the Greater New Castle movement.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

QUINTS WERE FIRST IDENTIFIED

People are always asking me how we kept the quintuplets identified after they were born, for they all looked alike and were kept in one basket. Well, we kept their identities clear in just the same way babies are kept identified in hospitals—by tagging them.

Of course if we hadn't been very careful we would have mixed them up for they were so much alike, and we were really more interested in trying to save their lives than in keeping their identities straight.

No names, of course, were selected prior to their birth. No one was prepared for five babies, so we just tagged them A, B, C, D, and E. Then when they received their names officially, we put bracelets and necklaces on them and kept them on so there was no danger of the little girl who was named Annette being called Yvonne and so on.

We found the weights of the children very useful in keeping them straight. They all weighed differently—incidentally, these weights have kept about the same ratio to each other ever since they were born. For instance when they were a week old, Marie weighed one pound eight ounces; Emilie was one pound twelve ounces; Cecile, one pound, fourteen ounces; Annette, one pound, sixteen ounces; and Yvonne, the heavyweights, weighed two pounds four ounces and two pounds six respectively.

The babies were five months old before the ritual of baptism was performed. Each child took three names and each baby has Marie as one of these three names.

When the children were a year and a half old fingerprints were taken. We had a lot of trouble getting them and the prints weren't very good. We had the Provincial Police superintendent take the fingerprints. Later we tried the following method, evolved by the University of Toronto.

First rub some hand lotion into the skin. If the skin is dry, then orinary face cream will be the best thing to use. The moist hand is then pressed lightly upon a sheet of specially prepared paper, called kineograph paper, which is lying on rubber pads. Two or three imprints can be made with a single moistening of the hand. When this is done sprinkle finely powdered lamp black over the paper: roll it around the paper with a rocking motion until the invisible ridges and sweat pore impressions stand out. Then shake the excess lampblack off the sheet and place it in a tray which contains a solution of thirty grams of resin in a litre of 95 percent alcohol.

I like this method because it causes no messy ink stains on the children's fingers. In fact, there aren't any stains at all. Besides, the prints are better than those taken with ink because in a child the ridges that make up the pattern of the fingerprints are very soft and flatten with the least pressure.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Down in sun-bathed San Antonio they are about to celebrate reverently and proudly one of the most heroic incidents in American history. From all Texas will go a pilgrimage of boys and girls from the colleges and schools of the Lone Star State to lay a gorgeous tribute of flowers along the scarred walls of the Alamo, the Shrine of Texan liberty—the Alamo, symbol of heroism in any history.

"Thermopylae had its messengers of defeat, the Alamo had none."

When night fell on March 6, 1836, in the palm-fringed little city of San Antonio, and murky smoke from Santa Ana's guns lifted skyward, there was not one man alive to tell the story of the most gallant and doomed defense in the annals of fighting men.

Texas, at the time, was a part of Mexico, writhing under ruthless oppression. The Texans rebelled under a tyrannical not to be endured by free-born Americans. The Mexican dictator, Santa Ana, crossed the Rio Grande in February, threatening death to every American in Texas. On February 24, his vanguard was before the Alamo mission in San Antonio, which Colonel William Barrett Travis and Colonel James Bowie, inventor of the Bowie knife, had captured and were holding defiantly against the "Napoleon of the West."

Travis and Bowie, with them the famous Davy Crockett, had with 156 men literally cut their way through the Mexican garrison to gain the Alamo, whose thick walls—built to shield worshippers in church from sun—were now to serve as a fortress. It was there that Davy Crockett and a gallant little band of frontiersmen, less than two hundred strong, defied a Mexican army of five thousand and, for 13 desperate days, maintained the unequal struggle, falling one by one, until every man was dead.

Davy Crockett in his fringed buckskin shirt and coonskin cap, carrying his famous long rifle, "Old Betsy," had gone to Texas with thirteen Tennesseans because he believed the Texan cause was right, and to keep a rendezvous with death and destiny.

During the 13 days of the Alamo siege there was little rest for the heroic defenders. Lacking in numbers they were seldom able to leave their posts. What sleep they had, they snatched there, lying on their arms. A bitter norther was blowing. Most of the men were barefoot. There was not enough blankets to go around. Even firewood could be procured only by a desperate sally against the tightening Mexican lines.

Night after night Davy Crockett made the rounds of the post, his beloved fiddle under his arm, to entertain the starving, freezing but indomitable defenders—a tune or two, a jest or two, until the men forgot their sufferings. A few yards east of the main Alamo plaza stands the Alamo Chapel. This was outside the main walls, and to defend it they had built a low palisade. To Colonel Crockett and his Tennesseans this exposed point was given to defend, and defend it they did, to the last breath that any one of them ever drew.

Even on the last, fatal morning, with the Mexicans attacking from all sides, they were stopped and driven back no less than three times—a miracle of courage and determination. But finally the Mexicans stormed the north wall, 3000 strong, and streamed into the plaza. Once they were inside the end was near. Less than 100 able-bodied men were left to withstand 30 times their numbers. Crockett, with half a dozen men, fought his way to a cannon located on the west side of the plaza. It was mounted on a light platform. Crockett turned it on the swarming Mexicans in the plaza. Time after time his deadly fire raked the enemy crowded in the square. The Mexican general, Santa Ana, said that this one gun did more damage than all the others combined.

But half a dozen men—and it had come to just that—could not beat off an army. One swift charge, a grimly brief struggle and the gun was silenced. Crockett's body was found at the base of the platform. "Old Betsy" still grasped in his lifeless hands, and about him a circle of slain Mexicans, mute testimony to the desperation of his last stand.

No wonder the Texans revere the memory of that day, for on that day the heroic resistance of that ragged handful kindled the flame of a new nation. "Remember the Alamo!" was the battle-cry by which an empire was wrested from Mexico. The proud statement, "the people of Texas do now constitute a free, sovereign and independent republic," still stands. Texas is a free republic, associated with 47 others, united to defend their own freedom and that of the American nation.

Another Group Joins Hands With Alliance

Washington Union Mission Now
With Christian And Missionary Alliance

The Christian and Missionary Alliance, into whose fold the Peoples Mission recently came, has further widened its New Castle field by the annexation of the Washington Union Mission on West Washington street extension.

Fifteen charter members were received into the church. District Officer of the Alliance, Rev. George B. Morgan, appointed the following board of trustees: secretary, James Leasure; treasurer, William Clark; financial secretary, Patsy Triozzi; other trustees, Willis Fye and Angelo Errico.

The Sunday School has 73 on the roll. The mission was started March 5, 1932, by Walter R. Cunningham. He was in charge of the services for about three years, when he went to another field; Rev. A. T. Williams, former pastor of the Hoover Heights Tabernacle of Alliance took charge; with Rev. Williams departure for another field, the present pastor, Henry Sumner, took over the work. For the past seven years the mission has been undenominational.

In addition to the Sunday services, there will be a preaching service Tuesday evening at 7:30 with the pastor in charge, and a prayer meeting Friday evening at 7:30 with Mrs. J. E. Leasure, Sr., in charge.

High Military Award Given To Man Known Here

Mrs. Ralph Metzler and daughter Frances of West Cherry street have returned from Fort Wayne, Ind., where they witnessed the presentation of the highest military award, namely, the Distinguished Service Cross, to the widow of her brother, Mrs. Daniel Weikel.

Attending the funeral of her brother, Mrs. Metzler was completely surprised when Mrs. Weikel was given the medal on behalf of the Spanish-American War Veterans group. It was conferred for bravery at San Juan.

Mr. Weikel, although he had suffered from an illness sustained in the Spanish-American war, had visited here many times and has quite a few acquaintances in this vicinity. His occupation was that of a construction engineer. His death came as a shock to his friends here.

Wish to thank my neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of my beloved husband for flowers and cars donated.

Two Over-Time Period Battles In Tournament

Gus' Big Five Trim Ellwood City Shelys, And Bessemer Tops Trades Team

N. Y. A. Quintet Is Victorious Over New Wilmington Five, In Upset

It was a night of thrills and chills for the fans who attended the second annual City-County basketball tournament games last night at the George Washington High floor. Two over-time battles were fought right down to the last second. The crowd for the kind of basketball that was dished out was very disappointing. The victors in the final games of the first round were—Bessemer Indians, N. Y. A. and Gus' Big Five.

Bessemer Turns On Heat

With as well balanced a team as seen in the tourney to date the Bessemer Indians captained by Bill Glass trailed at the half 11 to 9, but came back with a rush in the third and fourth periods to even up the count at 25-25 as the regulation game ended.

Henry Marshall former Bessemer High star was the boy who kept the Cement Towers in the battle, scoring three field goals in the first half and three in the last half before being taken out. He was easily the outstanding performer on the court and made a decided hit with the fans by his smoothness in passing the ball and his accuracy in caring that old spheroid. Nick Calderaro of Bessemer High fame is another boy whose guarding had a lot to do with the Bessemer victory. The DeArment brothers all played their customary fine games. Shoup was also in the game up to his ears.

Louder and Bobby Bret were the best bets in the Trades Assembly lineup. Had the Trades boys played the same kind of a game in the second half that they did in the first-half, things might have been different. Anderson made the winning bucket for the Bessemer team in the extra-period.

N. Y. A. Tops New Wilmington

The big surprise of the night came in the second game, when the N. Y. A. team with the aplomb of well trained executioners went about the business of making short work of the highly publicized Klumph and Gillespie team of New Wilmington by the count of 27 to 19. The New Wilmington team was one of the tourney favorites and had been expected to romp easily over the local N. Y. A. boys.

At the half the game was all tied up at 14-14, but in the third and fourth periods the N. Y. A. drew steadily ahead, paced by Harry Toscano and Eddie Ostrosky. Patterson and Mercer kept the New Wilmington hopes alive in the final two periods. There were no outstanding ball players in this particular battle.

Gus' Nose Out Ellwood

The thrills, spills and chills came in the final game on the card. The Gus' Big Five emerged victors in an extra-period of torrid basketballing 32 to 31 over the Ellwood City Shelys to Social Club in what proved as good a game as seen here for quite some time.

It was a hammer and tongs battle to the finish line. The first period Ellwood City jumped out in front 7 to 3, and at halftime had a lead of 18 to 10. Alec Roebuck, Gottuso and Stasick paced the Ellwood boys in the first half with the scor-

Tourney Games Monday Night

Three Fast Games Billed In Start Of Second Round Of City-County Tourney

There will be three more fast games in the City-County basketball tourney at the George Washington High floor on Monday night. This will be the start of the second round of the tourney. The first game will start at 7:15 o'clock, it was announced by Tourney General Chairman Tony Conn.

In the first game on the card the Franklin Ex-Hi Stars conquerers in the first-round of the Ex-Hi-Y Stars will battle the N. Y. A. team conquerers of the New Wilmington team. This should be a first class engagement.

Keystones Vs. Madison

The second game of the bill will find the Keystone A. C. team, conquerers of Shenango High in the first-round playing the Madison A. C. team, conquerers of the K. Pulaski team in the first round.

In the third and final game the Gersons, defending champs will play the Gus' Big Five, conquerers of the Ellwood City Shelys Social Club and this will round out three very fine games for the evening, all for the small price of a dime for the kiddies and fifteen cents for the grown-ups.

COON HUNTERS MEET MONDAY

There will be a special meeting of the Coon Hunters' association of Lawrence county at the "Y" Monday night, March 13, at 8 o'clock, it was announced today. All committees for field trials are asked to try and attend the meeting. Vic Connerly is president of the association.

Renaissance Here Tonight

Polish Falcons And Keystones To Play Preliminary At 7:15 O'Clock

FEATURE CLASH STARTS AT 8:15

One of the most appealing basketball attractions of the season is billed for The Arena hardwood tonight.

Two local arch-rivals, the Polish Falcons and Keystones, will provide the action in the preliminary engagement, at 7:15 o'clock. The popular aggregations are in the midst of their annual series. The Keys, defeated recently, will be out to even the standing.

The main attraction brings together the Renaissance, world's colored champs, and the New Castle Boosters at 8:15 o'clock. The Reds, who appeared here several weeks ago, have dumped practically every professional team of merit. Only last week the sepians giants dropped a nerve-breaking 36-33 decision to the New York Celtics. "Pat" Jenkins, ranked as the greatest basketball player in the world, will be in the lineup, supplying his cage wizardry which tore down the house here recently. "Tarzan" Cooper, who handles the spheroid with the adeptness of a major league baseball player, will play center. "Wile" Smith, the sharpshooter and one of the mainstays on the club, will hold down one of the forward posts.

The Reds will put on their usual floor show, which includes entertainment as well as a topnotch display of cage tactics. The Boosters are in the pink of condition for the scrap and promise to give their famous foes plenty of trouble.

The Reds attracted more than 1,000 persons when they first appeared here. The colored cage acts are coming here again by popular demand.

Sportsmen Have Banquet Event

About 250 Of Shenango Valley Sportsmen's Association Gather At New Wilmington

REPORT STREAMS WILL BE STOCKED

Nine truck loads of trout will be shipped here from state hatcheries and stocked in Lawrence county streams next week it was reported at the annual banquet last night of the Shenango Valley Sportsmen, held in the Methodist church, New Wilmington.

Unlike other years, no announcement will be made by fish commission representatives as to streams to be stocked.

The trout will be about eight inches in length. The legal size for fishermen is six inches or more.

The banquet was attended by approximately 250 persons from New Wilmington, New Bedford, Pulaski, New Castle, Ellwood City, Evans City, Bessemer and East New Castle.

The fishermen enjoyed a splendid dinner following which Vic Minter, president of the organization, who acted as chairman turned the banquet over to the toastmaster, Clint White, a fish warden.

C. A. French, member of the state fish commission and Robert Lambertson, member of the state game commission and Hays P. Englert, district supervisor of game, each made addresses.

The sportsmen also gave farewell to V. T. Warfel who has been in charge of the Jordan game farm and who soon will leave to take up a similar post at the Fisher game farm in eastern Pennsylvania.

Skipping 'round the sports world—There should be lots of fireworks when the New York Boxing commission gathers Tuesday to put the official O.K. on the Louis-Galento fight. Bill Brown, one of the fiery members of the august board, will be against it on the ground that, "Galento is not physically fit to absorb the punishment Louis deals out."

The Boston Bruins-New York Americans National Hockey League tilt set a scoring mark for the season. It ended, 9-6, favor the Bruins. "Kid" Aldrich, all-American center at Texas Christian, is still sporting a patch over one of his eyes, the

LADY "SHEER" AT AROSA, SWITZERLAND

Not an old Spanish custom, but a new Swiss costume. This get-up for a lady skier, enables the skier, or sheer, as the Norse would call a feminine skier, to take a sunbath while enjoying the winter sport. The "sheer" was snapped at Arosa, Switzerland.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Local sport tattle—William Faust, a typewriter jockey in Butler, paid a fitting tribute to New Wilmington high's smooth clicking basketball team. Says Friend Bill, "We wouldn't have minded having Minter, Mercer and Newton on our ball club."

A south silder drops in a note stating that Norman "Cannonball" Bishara and "Gaby" DeCaprio will be playing softball in Youngstown again this season against some of the greatest clubs in the country.

Dick Monsey, vacationing in Florida, drops in a couple of lines stating that he and Frank Summers, this city, are enjoying lots of golf. Enroute to Jacksonville from St. Petersburg, the local nubbick swingers met Mrs. Freda Nolan, New Castle, and the famous Patty Berg who were enroute to Bellare for another tourney. . . .

Ellwood City Is Noted Fistically

Several Ellwood City Boys Became Known By Using Gloved Fists

BOXING SHOW IN ELLWOOD, MONDAY

Although the fistic production in Ellwood City Monday may be the first in some time in that hustling town the fact remains that Ellwood City has had a good athletic record and its fighters stand out as prominently as those in other ranks.

Harkening back some years one recalls the Mills boys and later Emmett Rocco. The Mills were as tough as granite, likewise Emmett. The Mills battled throughout the tri-state section and Emmett in cities, near and distant.

The writer yet recalls the Mills boys battling as though their very existence depended upon victory and we yet see Emmett Rocco outpointing Battling Levinsky and putting up great battles with other heavies some years ago.

Staged Good Bouts

In addition to its sons having been renowned pugilistically, the town can boast of having staged some exciting battles, not only in the amateur but also in professional ranks.

The writer witnessed Babe Picato, Toughrey Murray, Eddie Weygant and Emmett Rocco in battles there. Some of the battles were staged in a theater and others in the Shelby social club.

And in speaking of Ellwood City fighters we recall the night that Henderson stepped into the ring in one of the preliminaries and put up a very exciting scrap.

Ellwood Boxers On Card

Inasmuch as the promotion Monday night in the Ellwood City Lincoln high school gymnasium will be for the benefit of the Hospital Orthopedic Appliance fund, it ought to prove a magnet, and successful financially.

Among the 18 fighters will be Ellwood City boys, Nick and Baby Retardo, Moon Robinson and Benny Bartle. Nick has staged some exciting battles here. Benny has stood toe to toe and slugged it out. Robinson and Baby Retardo as yet are youngsters. Emmett Rocco is tutor.

Robinson, who is a colored lad of 126 pounds and Nick's brother is a 112-pounder.

Claims Title

Nick will fight Regis O'Brien, Pittsburgh, at 155; Baby will oppose Billy Sweeney, Pittsburgh, at 112; Bartle will swap blows with Vic Ferand, Pittsburgh, at 155 and Robin meets Joey Yarosz, Monaca, at 126.

Joe McKenna, Pittsburgh, who claims the national A. A. U. bantamweight title will tackle Frankie Ort, Follansbee. This ought to be a sensational scrap and fast.

The Woody Sweeney, Pittsburgh vs Billy Murray, Follansbee, 126 pound bout looks inviting as does the Ernie Pelai, Monaca vs Steve Kowalik, Pittsburgh, 147 pound slugfest.

Arkett To Battle

Chuck Arkett, West Pittsburg's seasoned lightweight takes on Mike Wukas of the Beaver Valley in a bout that should provide a world of hard punching. Arkett has been boxing nicely in recent bouts.

Halbert Brooks, alias Dancing Feet of Moravia street, has a tough night in front of him if Muddy Kuriz of McKees Rocks is in a bad humor. A slugfest, however, Brooks has a chance because he hits hard. They weigh 147.

According to Meritt Book who is chairman of the benefit bouts, all plans are arranged. No bouts will be held in New Castle the same night but New Castle's Jefferson A. C. have postponed their fights until March 20.

Epworth Quintet Trims Christians

Epworth M. E. church basketball team went a step nearer the top last night in the Church Basketball league, by handing a 26 to 20 setback to the First Christians in a sizzling ball game. Morrison and Kennedy were the Epworth standouts. Davies and Hughes had the majority of the Christian points.

In the other two games on the bill the First M. E. team won from the Central Presbyterians 20 to 10, and in the other game the Second U. P. team topped the Third U. P. quintet 20 to 13.

New Wilmington To Play Monaca At Beaver Falls

Scene Of Class B, W. P. I. A. L. Title Game Tuesday Is Shifted Again

GAME TO BEGIN AT 8:00 O'CLOCK

New Wilmington high school's "Greyhounds", champions of Section 20, will face Monaca high, Section 11 banner winners, for the class B title of the W. P. I. A. L. on the Beaver Falls high school hardwood Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

The latest shift, the third since last Thursday, was announced by Principal Walt Whitman of New Wilmington high, who received word from the W. P. I. A. L. moguls Friday. Originally, the contest was slated for tonight in the Pitt stadium. League officials decided to postpone the clash due to the heavy sale of tickets for the Ford City Homestead battle. During a meeting the New Brighton high floor was selected as the scene of the set-to.

Yesterday, Principal Whitman was notified of the latest change. "The date and scene of the game have been settled. The championship game will be played Tuesday night on the Beaver Falls floor at 8 o'clock," Whitman said.

Learning of the shift, Coach John Eagleson hurried his squad to the valley court for a workout. Another drill is slated for the Falls lair today. With a pair of rehearsals under their belts, the genial commanders of the "Greyhounds" believes his proteges will "have the feel of the new floor."

Coach Eagleson reported his squad in fine condition. Several of the players participated in the East Pittsburgh semi-final affair despite light colds.

The latest change is expected to be a profitable one so far as the turnstiles are concerned. The location of the floor is a distinct benefit to both institutions, Monaca being, literally, across the street from the playing scene, while New Wilmington is a mere 30 or 31 miles away. Monaca will have more than 1,000 persons in the cheering section. Word was received yesterday that the valley entry has already sold 1,600 pastboards. New Wilmington has 600 tickets available for the championship game.

The tickets, 40 centers, are on sale at New Wilmington and at the Sporting Goods store, at Beaver Falls. The tickets will sell for 50 cents.

The New Wilmington team will set out for the clash at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday night, by bus.

AROUND CITY HALL

Representatives of the Municipal Park commission have conferred with owners of concessions in Cascade Park for the purpose of hearing the price for which concessionaires would dispose of what interest remains in the concessions. Prices were asked and the commission will meet Tuesday to discuss the proposition.

During the recent council meeting Mayor Charles E. McGrath called colleagues' attention to the condition of Neshannock avenue. He said there were holes in the paving. City Engineer Glenn R. Throp indicated some "hot mix" poured into the holes, then rolled, would alleviate the situation. The thoroughfare was amended years ago.

Councilman Joseph D. Alexander is ill at home. Announcement that street paving will be resumed within six weeks was heartening news to workers here. Assessors A. C. Shoaf and John Cartwright are conducting an assessment for 1940-1942, inclusive. Six hundred and sixty six dollars were collected from parking meters for the last 10 days parking period.

Dear Brother Lion: If you are engaged in warfare against some destructive pest, you are always glad to discover some means to combat it. We have learned in recent years of a hidden enemy which has been working steadily in some parts of this country and doing untold damage. We refer to termites.

The picture will be interesting and educational.

Three commissions for notaries public have been received and recorded in the office of the Register and Recorder. They are Martin Leonhardt, Mrs. Lois D. O'Neil and Mrs. Helen W. Hoose.

Commissions for notaries public undergo the same routine as do nominations of the governor for cabinet positions. The governor sends the nomination of the notary public to the State Senate and before the commission is authorized, the Senate must confirm it.

Rarely is a commission ever refused. One of the reasons is that every state senator has people in his constituency who want commissions and it wouldn't be a good idea to try and stop the other fellow's applications.

Another summary conviction by a justice of the peace in a motor violation has been overturned by the Lawrence County court. In an opinion handed down Friday by Judge Thomas W. Dickey, the decision of Justice William J. Eakin of Scott township is reversed in the case of the Commonwealth against Russell R. Smith.

Smith was arrested November 26, 1938 by State Motor Policeman F. J. Norris, charged with reckless driving. Smith was fined by Squire Eakin. In his appeal Smith claimed no evidence had been adduced by the policeman to show guilt and the court sustained the appeal. The fine and costs will be returned to Smith under the order.

Within a short time there will be a wide parking lot back of the court house on the property of the old Boyles home. Workmen have been grubbing out bushes and cutting down some trees. The lot will probably be covered with ashes and there will be room to park a hundred or more cars.

Squire H. M. Reynolds, former sheriff, was in the court house Friday with a story of three deer. Seems that the three deer trespassed on Reynolds' back yard in Union township. Buck claims they were three fine specimens.

On the books of the prothonotary are many liens on properties which should be cleaned off within the next few weeks if the taxpayers wish to save some money. The liens for 1933 are to be revived and the filing cost of each lien will be one dollar for each of the various taxes, county, institutional, school road, etc. Many of the liens are for less than one dollar, according to County Treasurer V. I. Mandich and if they are paid off before the filing, the taxpayer will save several times the amount of the lien.
